

HARDING PROPOSES FORMING ASS'N OF NATIONS

EXPECTS CONFERENCE TO DEVELOPE INTO SUCH ORGANIZATION

MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT TO THIS EFFECT LATE YESTERDAY, HOLDING 10 MEETINGS

EVENUALLY TO INCLUDE DELEGATES FROM ALL CIVILIZED NATIONS IS HOPE

(By United Press.)
Washington, Nov. 26—President Harding's association of nations today looked up as a rival of the Wilson league of nations in the effort for world peace.

Which would eventually triumph, it was believed here, will depend which one can accomplish the most definite results. If the arms conference now in session settles all problems before it, it is believed the establishment of the Harding association would take place.

The interest of the delegates to the arms limitation conference here today centered on this possibility, contained in the White House announcement of late yesterday that President Harding expects the present conference to develop into an association of nations holding ten meetings, and eventually including all civilized nations of the world.

The conflict foreseen by delegates was not an active hostility between the two international organizations, but the gradual diminishing of one by the other. In other words, they saw a possibility that the Wilson league might be absorbed by the Harding association simply because the latter proved itself superior for getting action.

In any event, the hope expressed at the White House brought no adverse comment today. In fact, the foreign delegates have talked over with Harding the idea of extending the present conference into a permanent association. For more than a week the Japanese delegation has been talking of the possibility of making the conference a continuing agency. The Chinese have expressed hearty accord with any plan fostered by the United States which would result in associating this nation with France in any degree.

Britain Reticent on Association Plan
Washington, Nov. 26—President Harding should get the senate and the American people to approve his association of nations plan before he submits it to other nations.

This is the view of the British delegation to the arms conference expressed today in comment on Harding's expressed hope that the present conference will develop a permanent international association.

The British regard it as an American domestic question and will therefore refrain from expressing any opinion on it until the opinion of the American public has been manifested.

Great Britain, it was said, is more anxious to participate in any movement tending to establish world peace. In other words, Great Britain will wait to see whether the new association idea as outlined will meet in the senate the same as the Wilson league of nations. Great Britain is a member of the league and awaits something better before it will end its membership there.

FOCH WELCOMED IN SAINT PAUL AS GREAT WAR GEN.

GREETED BY 60,000 PEOPLE AND WELCOMED BY GOVERNOR J. A. A. PREUS

MAKES SPEECH SAYING FRANCE WOULD BE MOST BENEFITTED BY DISARMAMENT

(By United Press.)
St. Paul, Nov. 26—"France having suffered most in the war, would be most benefited by disarmament," Marshal Ferdinand Foch of France told Governor Preus when the latter extended him a formal welcome to Minnesota today.

"France lost one million, five hundred thousand men in the war," he said. "She is ready to disarm on land and sea if adequate guarantees of national safety are made."

Foch spoke before a great crowd on Capitol hill. He was first lauded by Governor Preus. The executive praised him as the "greatest war general," and introduced the subject of disarmament by saying that America, although able to outstrip the rest of the world in armament, was willing to make huge sacrifices to prevent future wars. Foch replied in French. His speech was interpreted to the crowd.

Thousands in carnival costumes thronged the streets. The famous St. Paul winter carnival was revived in honor of Foch and his party. They wore many hued woolsens and fur costumes. "Gorgeous," said the general. Fully 60,000 people welcomed General Foch to St. Paul last night. They thronged the streets until toward midnight. Every conceivable instrument to produce music was used.

Red fire and sparklers lighted the general's way from the depot to the hotel where he stayed. Foch went to Minneapolis for six hours today and was extended a big reception. One of the papers estimated St. Paul's welcome crowd at 150,000 people and encouraged Minneapolis to do better. There was great rivalry between the cities.

Foch leaves tonight for Fargo, Bismarck, Billings and Seattle.

Minneapolis Reception

Minneapolis, Nov. 26—Crowned king of the St. Paul winter carnival and given the greatest reception of his career in Minneapolis, Marshal Foch of France, was overjoyed today.

The Twin Cities aroused strong rivalry to outdo each other in honoring Foch. Minneapolis outdid St. Paul in numbers and decorations. St. Paul's revival of the winter carnival of years past was most distinctive.

Foch started the day by being crowned King Boreas Rex, III, of the St. Paul winter carnival. James Ridley handed his scepter to the "Little General" while hundreds in gay carnival uniforms cheered. In turn, high officers of the American Legion and the other members of the French party were knighted by the king. Then Foch went to the Minnesota state capitol to receive a formal welcome from Governor J. A. O. Preus. They exchanged salutations and Marshal Foch speaking in French, declared France is ready to disarm on land and sea if future war is to be averted and her national safety assured.

Foch then went to the University of Minnesota and was greeted by President L. A. Coffman.

His entry into downtown Minneapolis was triumphal.

Between 100,000 and 150,000 persons lined the streets and shouted. The general was driven over the Minneapolis memorial drive which was lined with hundreds of trees in honor of her dead. Foch said it was a magnificent tribute.

Afterwards he went to the Leamington hotel and later in the day he was to address a mass meeting at the Auditorium. At 6 p. m. he starts for St. Paul for dinner and a reception at the Auditorium. He leaves at 9:30 p. m. for the west.

Asked what he thought of the disarmament conference at Washington, Marshal Foch chuckled. "I don't know, I never attended one." He carefully refrained from any remark about the conference.

NORTHWEST ROADS ANNOUNCE PAY CUT

REDUCTIONS, IF AFFECTED, WILL BECOME EFFECTIVE AUTOMATICALLY APPEAL WOULD MEAN HEARING

Minneapolis, Nov. 26—Railroads of the northwest have given notice of a wage reduction to organizations of their employees, it became known Friday. If the reductions are accepted by the employees they will become effective automatically, but if they are rejected, appeal can be made to the railway labor board which, in that event, will fix a date for hearing. Meanwhile, no reductions can be put in force. Several of the railroads made no specific proposals for reductions, while two at least have stated definite proposed reductions.

R. H. Henning, chairman of the federated shopcrafts for all the northwest roads, said the letters from the Soo and Great Northern specify the amount of reductions. The amount is the same in both proposals.

The cut on mechanics is from 77 to 67½ cents an hour. Previous to the July 1, 1920, cut of the United States railway labor board, the wages were 85 cents an hour. On helpers, the proposed reduction is to 49 cents an hour. It is now 54 cents an hour and before July 1, 1920, was 62 cents. The freight car workers, it is proposed, will get 59 cents which is a 22 cents cut from the present scale. Previous to July 1, 1920, these men were paid 80 cents an hour.

Mr. Henning said this new cut would put wages back to where they were early in 1919. He said that at the same time the shop craftsmen will confer with the railroads on this proposal, the railroads must confer with them on their own proposal made on Monday throughout the country to put wages back to a scale 5 cents higher than in effect early in 1920.

BRYAN COMMENTS ON BRITISH AND FRENCH ATTITUDE

ON LAND ARMAMENTS AS SHOWN BY WORD WAR BETWEEN BRIAND AND CURZON

SAYS OPEN DISCUSSION IS BETTER THAN SECRET HOSTILITY—AGREEMENT PROBABLE

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN
(Copyright 1921 by the United Press)
Washington, Nov. 26—Premier Briand's speech has stirred up a hornet's nest, and he shows no disposition to restrain or mollify those who have responded to him.

His last speech in the United States was unexpectedly bold in criticism of Great Britain, and Lord Curzon has with equal frankness stated Great Britain's objection to the French army. While the quarrel has all the earmarks of a first fundamental dispute, it may after all be the best way of bringing the parties together. Sometimes an open dispute hastens a reconciliation—suppressed hostility is more likely to continue than a hostility that bursts out and compels attention.

Briand renewed his attack on Germany and charged that the new government is in line with the old and equally susceptible to abrasion by arms.

Great Britain does not share in France's fear and she certainly is in as good a position to know what Germany is doing as France is, and there is no reason why Germany should feel less angered at Great Britain than at France.

It was Great Britain's strength added to the arms of France that held the line against Germany until the weight of the American influence was thrown into the scale. If the fears of France were well founded, would not Great Britain be equally alarmed? Is there any reason why the British Empire should be indifferent to Germany's plans if the latter is to have her revenge, and only awaiting an opportunity to express it on her neighbors?

But the important question is not Great Britain's and France's opinion. The world is interested in knowing the actual facts, and the facts are easy to ascertain. It would seem to be the duty of the conference to inquire immediately as to Germany's disposition. Her government could answer at once and decide the course of the conference. If Germany, by official acts of her government reaffirms what officials have said unofficially, she can offer her pledges of peace and express her willingness to unite with the other powers in any plan that will allay the fear of France and any other nation that suspects her. The conference can name the conditions it deems necessary; if they are complied with, France will doubtless accept the assurances and the matters will be settled.

ARBuckle CHEERED BY EVIDENCE IN MURDER TRIAL

San Francisco, Nov. 26—Roscoe Arbuckle was on hand early for his trial today, smoking a personally rolled cigarette and apparently in good spirits. The victories which his attorneys won yesterday undoubtedly had cheered him.

IRISH BRITISH PEACE PARLEYS FAIL UTTERLY

CAUSE OF FAILURE IS REFUSAL OF SINN FEINERS OF ALLIANCE TO KING

London, Nov. 26—What is feared to be the last scene in the effort to bring peace to Ireland was enacted today when Prime Minister Lloyd George and Sir James Craig met in the former's official residence in Downing street, where the imperial premier told the head of the northern government that Sinn Fein Ireland had not consented to own allegiance to the king a prerequisite to Ulster's agreement to enter an all-Ireland parliament.

The Sinn Fein delegates are consulting with members of the Dail cabinet in Dublin on the crisis thus brought about, while Sir James packed his bag and returned to Belfast, where he will report to his parliament next Tuesday and possibly disclose the cause of virtual breakdown of the Irish negotiations. The official correspondence that has passed between the various delegates also may be published at the same time in London.

Modifications Sought
Week-end efforts, meanwhile, will be made by peacemakers in an attempt to persuade the Sinn Fein to modify its attitude on the question of allegiance to the king. The Dail Eireann members have taken the oath of allegiance to the Irish republic, and thus far they have refused to substitute for it recognition, with Ireland of King George. The furthest concession from the Sinn Fein has been their willingness to recognize the king as the formal president of the community, of free nations which Ireland might choose voluntarily to join, but even this was not definitely promised.

Lord Chancellor Birkenhead and Attorney General Hewart, law officers of the crown, have ransacked the constitutions of all the British dominions to find any precedent for the only kind of relationship with the British crown that Sinn Fein will consider, but nothing can be found and the Evening News, the first London newspaper to indicate the real cause of the crisis, suggests that the relations of Bavaria with Prussia in the German empire might furnish such a precedent.

Consider Ireland's Fate

London, Nov. 26—The fate of Ireland today was being determined at a conference between Sir James Craig and Ulster leaders in Belfast at a meeting of the Gail cabinet in Dublin. They embody, it was believed, a plan to establish a south Irish parliament and provide for a plebiscite to determine three future boundaries. An alternative subject is believed to be contained in the proposals allowing for acceptance of the old Irish parliament plan if agreeable to both sides.

PRSDENT'S PLAN TO MAINTAIN PEACE IS GIVEN APPROVAL

HARDING'S PROPOSAL FOR GERMAN PARTICIPATION IS APPROVED BY MAJORITY

SPECULATION RIFE AS TO CONFLICT OF ASSOCIATION WITH LEAGUE OF NATIONS

(By United Press.)
Washington, Nov. 26—President Harding's plan for an association of nations has met with general approval from virtually all the delegations at the arms conference.

Speculation is rife among the delegates as to probable conflict between the Wilson league and the Harding association.

President Harding's proposal for Germany's participation in the conference apparently is approved by the majority.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has suggested that the government make some provision for tiding over the unemployed because of cessation of battleship construction.

American naval experts again have informed Japan that they see no reason for increasing the Japanese ratio of capital ship tonnage 70 per cent under the limitation of armament program. Premier Briand, many observers here believe, is going back to France in defeat, and developments that will come in his country upon his return are awaited with intense interest.

The British are known to be in accord on the proposition that the most practical means of preserving peace and retaining normal business conditions is the best means, and hence worthy of their support.

Steps Taken to Invite Germany
Washington, Nov. 26—The United States and Great Britain have already taken steps to bring Germany into the arms limitation conference.

These steps were described today by an American official as "informal and tentative." So far as could be learned, Germany has not actually been approved officially.

What thus far has been done, was intimated as mostly in the nature of informal discussion between officials of the advisability of inviting Germany into the conference in connection with bringing about a reduction of the French army.

Germany will gladly participate in the present conference according to past and present information.

The invitation to her would probably mean that the question would be opened up sooner or later. Germany would like nothing better than such a discussion on American soil.

Germany Anxious For Disarmament
Washington, Nov. 26—Germany is prepared to send to the Washington conference a small economic military delegation. This commission will be ready to discuss land disarmament problems and reparations if the latter is included under the broadened scope of the arms session.

This information was told the United Press today from sources close to Edmund Thermann, new German charge here. It would carry with it authority, doubtless, for satisfactory guarantees against the "German aggression" which Briand says France fears.

The committee would be equipped to consider the points of Briand's reply. More important, however, to the Germans would be discussion of the reparations question. The Wirth government contends that Germany cannot make its reparations payment after next spring under the present system.

HARDING PROPOSES FORMING ASS'N OF NATIONS

EXPECTS CONFERENCE TO DEVELOPE INTO SUCH ORGANIZATION

MAKES ANNOUNCEMENT TO THIS EFFECT LATE YESTERDAY, HOLDING 10 MEETINGS

EVENUALLY TO INCLUDE DELEGATES FROM ALL CIVILIZED NATIONS IS HOPE

(By United Press)
Washington, Nov. 26—President Harding's association of nations today loomed up as a rival of the Wilson league of nations in the effort for world peace.

Which would eventually triumph, it was believed here, will depend which one can accomplish the most definite results. If the arms conference now in session settles all problems before it, it is believed the establishment of the Harding association would take place.

The interest of the delegates to the arms limitation conference here today centered on this possibility, contained in the White House announcement of late yesterday that President Harding expects the present conference to develop into an association of nations holding ten meetings, and eventually including all civilized nations of the world.

The conflict foreseen by delegates was not an active hostility between the two international organizations, but the gradual diminishing of one by the other. In other words, they saw a possibility that the Wilson league might be absorbed by the Harding association simply because the latter proved itself superior for getting action.

In any event, the hope expressed at the White House brought no adverse comment today. In fact, the foreign delegates have talked over with Harding the idea of extending the present conference into a permanent association. For more than a week the Japanese delegation has been talking of the possibility of making the conference a continuing agency. The Chinese have expressed hearty accord with any plan fostered by the United States which would result in associating this nation with France in any degree.

Britain Reticent on Association Plan
Washington, Nov. 26—President Harding should get the senate and the American people to approve his association of nations plan before he submits it to other nations.

This is the view of the British delegation to the arms conference expressed today in comment on Harding's expressed hope that the present conference will develop a permanent international association.

The British regard it as an American domestic question and will therefore refrain from expressing any opinion on it until the opinion of the American public has been manifested.

Great Britain, it was said, is more anxious to participate in any movement tending to establish world peace. In other words, Great Britain will wait to see whether the new association idea as outlined will meet in the senate the same as the Wilson league of nations. Great Britain is a member of the league and awaits something better before it will end its membership there.

His last speech in the United States was unexpectedly bold in criticism of Great Britain, and Lord Curzon has with equal frankness stated Great Britain's objection to the French army. While the quarrel has all the earmarks of a first fundamental dispute, it may after all be the best way of bringing the parties together. Sometimes an open dispute hastens a reconciliation—suppressed hostility is more likely to continue than a hostility that bursts out and compels attention.

Briand renewed his attack on Germany and charged that the new government is in line with the old and equally susceptible to abrasion by arms.

Great Britain does not share in France's fear and she certainly is in as good a position to know what Germany is doing as France is, and there is no reason why Germany should feel less angered at Great Britain than at France.

It was Great Britain's strength added to the arms of France that held the line against Germany until the weight of the American influence was thrown into the scale. If the fears of France were well founded, would not Great Britain be equally alarmed? Is there any reason why the British Empire should be indifferent to Germany's plans if the latter is to have her revenge, and only awaiting an opportunity to express it on her neighbors?

But the important question is not Great Britain's and France's opinion. The world is interested in knowing the actual facts, and the facts are easy to ascertain. It would seem to be the duty of the conference to inquire immediately as to Germany's disposition. Her government could answer at once and decide the course of the conference. If Germany, by official acts of her government reaffirms what officials have said unofficially, she can offer her pledges of peace and express her willingness to unite with the other powers in any plan that will allay the fear of France and any other nation that suspects her. The conference can name the conditions it deems necessary; if they are complied with, France will doubtless accept the assurances and the matters will be settled.

ARBuckle CHEERED BY EVIDENCE IN MURDER TRIAL

San Francisco, Nov. 26—Roscoe Arbuckle was on hand early for his trial today, smoking a personally rolled cigarette and apparently in good spirits. The victories which his attorneys won yesterday undoubtedly had cheered him.

Gavin McNab, his chief counsel, announced at the opening of the court that the defense expected to close Monday.

At McNab's request, deposition taken in Chicago and New York were unsealed in open court, but were not then read.

Harry B. Barker, of San Francisco and Gary, Indiana, Miss Rappe's old "sweetheart," was called for close examination. He testified that on several occasions when he saw Miss Rappe hysterical and tear her clothes after she had partaken of liquor in small quantities. "She had one attack after dinner at Rector's Cafe in Chicago," he said. "Virginia and I were dining together. It was about 7:30 p.m.

THREATEN AMERICAN OFFICIALS IN MEXICO

(By United Press)

El Paso, Texas, Nov. 26—American officials in Mexico have been threatened with death if Nicola Sacco and Bart Vanzetti are executed in accordance with the sentences passed upon them on charges of murder arising out of the Massachusetts payroll robbery, according to a letter received by Consul John Dye of Juarez.

The letter was reported to be from Vera Cruz syndicalists.

AUGUSTA, GA., HAS MILLION DOLLAR FIRE

(By United Press.)

Augusta, Ga., Nov. 26—Fire of unknown origin, which threatened the entire business section here, was brought under control at dawn after a city block had been partially destroyed.

The loss is estimated at more than $1,500,000.

IRISH BRITISH PEACE PARLEYS FAIL UTTERLY

CAUSE OF FAILURE IS REFUSAL OF SINN FEINERS OF ALLIGANCE TO KING

London, Nov. 26—What is feared to be the last scene in the effort to bring peace to Ireland was enacted today when Prime Minister Lloyd George and Sir James Craig met in the former's official residence in Downing street, where the imperial premier told the head of the northern government that Sinn Fein Ireland had not consented to own allegiance to the king a prerequisite to Ulster's agreement to enter an all-Ireland parliament.

The Sinn Fein delegates are consulting with members of the Dail cabinet in Dublin on the crisis thus brought about, while Sir James packed his bag and returned to Belfast, where he will report to his parliament next Tuesday and possibly disclose the cause of virtual breakdown of the Irish negotiations. The official correspondence that has passed between the various delegates also may be published at the same time in London.

Modifications Sought

Week-end efforts, meanwhile, will be made by peacemakers in an attempt to persuade the Sinn Fein to modify its attitude on the question of allegiance to the king. The Dail Eireann members have taken the oath of allegiance to the Irish republic, and thus far they have refused to substitute for it recognition, with Ireland of King George. The furthest concession from the Sinn Fein has been their willingness to recognize the king as the formal president of the community, of free nations which Ireland might choose voluntarily to join, but even this was not definitely promised.

Lord Chancellor Birkenhead and Attorney General Hewart, law officers of the crown, have ransacked the constitutions of all the British dominions to find any precedent for the only kind of relationship with the British crown that Sinn Fein will consider, but nothing can be found and the Evening News, the first London newspaper to indicate the real cause of the crisis, suggests that the relations of Bavaria with Prussia in the German empire might furnish such a precedent.

Consider Ireland's Fate

London, Nov. 26—The fate of Ireland today was being determined at a conference between Sir James Craig and Ulster leaders in Belfast at a meeting of the Gail cabinet in Dublin.

They embody, it was believed, a plan to establish a south Irish parliament and provide for a plebiscite to determine three future boundaries. An alternative subject is believed to be contained in the proposals allowing for acceptance of the old Irish parliament plan if agreeable to both sides.

PRESIDENT'S PLAN TO MAINTAIN PEACE IS GIVEN APPROVAL

HARDING'S PROPOSAL FOR GERMAN PARTICIPATION IS APPROVED BY MAJORITY

SPECULATION RIFE AS TO CONFLICT OF ASSOCIATION WITH LEAGUE OF NATIONS

(By United Press)

Washington, Nov. 26—President Harding's plan for an association of nations has met with general approval from virtually all the delegations at the arms conference.

Speculation is rife among the delegates as to probable conflict between the Wilson league and the Harding association.

President Harding's proposal for Germany's participation in the conference apparently is approved by the majority.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has suggested that the government make some provision for tiding over the unemployed because of cessation of battleship construction.

American naval experts again have informed Japan that they see no reason for increasing the Japanese ratio of capital ship tonnage 70 per cent under the limitation of armament program. Premier Briand, many observers here believe, is going back to France in defeat, and developments that will come in his country upon his return are awaited with intense interest.

The British are known to be in accord on the proposition that the most practical means of preserving peace and retaining normal business conditions is the best means, and hence worthy of their support.

Steps Taken to Invite Germany

Washington, Nov. 26—The United States and Great Britain have already taken steps to bring Germany into the arms limitation conference.

These steps were described today by an American official as "informal and tentative." So far as could be learned, Germany has not actually been approved officially.

What thus far has been done, was intimated as mostly in the nature of informal discussion between officials of the advisability of inviting Germany into the conference in connection with bringing about a reduction of the French army.

Germany will gladly participate in the present conference according to past and present information.

The invitation to her would probably mean that the question would be opened up sooner or later. Germany would like nothing better than such a discussion on American soil.

Germany Anxious For Disarmament

Washington, Nov. 26—Germany is prepared to send to the Washington conference a small economic military delegation. This commission will be ready to discuss land disarmament problems and reparations if the latter is included under the broadened scope of the arms session.

This information was told the United Press today from sources close to Edmund Thermann, new German charge here. It would carry with it authority, doubtless, for satisfactory guarantees against the "German aggression" which Briand says France fears.

The committee would be equipped to consider the points of Briand's reply. More important, however, to the Germans would be discussion of the reparations question. The Wirth government contends that Germany cannot make its reparations payment after next spring under the present system.

Withdraw Foreign Postoffices From China

Washington, Nov. 26—Foreign post-offices should be withdrawn from China it was agreed in principle by the far eastern committee today. A subcommittee called to meet this afternoon was charged with drawing up a resolution for meeting this idea.

Stallman-Terry
On Thursday morning, at the manse of the First Presbyterian church, Miss Leo F. Terry, daughter of Mrs. S. A. Lindberg of 818 South Seventh street, was married to Wallace B. Stallman, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Stallman, Rev. S. M. Kelly, pastor of the church, officiating.

The bride was gowned in canton crepe, dark blue shade, with hat and blouse to match and carried a bouquet of pink rosebuds. The bridal couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Norquist during the ceremony.

The bride is a charming young girl, a graduate of Laport City, Iowa, high school. She taught school in this county a term or two and was attending the Brainerd Commercial College. Mr. Stallman is associated with his father in business.

A sumptuous Thanksgiving dinner was enjoyed by the wedding party at the home of the bridegroom's parents. The young couple then went to the Twin Cities on a short wedding trip. They will be at home in apartments in the Palace flats of South Sixth street.

Women, on an average, have broader heads in proportion to their length, and darker eyes and hair than men.

French-Evans

A very pretty home wedding was solemnized at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Evans of 1415 Norwood street when their daughter, Miss Mellissa Amelia Evans, became the wife of Asa James French, one of Brainerd's popular letter carriers. The happy event took place Thursday afternoon November 24 at 3 p. m., Rev. S. M. Kelly, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating.

The bridesmaid was Miss Florence Pourre and the best man was Nathan Evans, brother of the bride. The flower girl was little Flora Lease, a cousin of the bride.

The happy couple were showered with presents and good wishes. They will make their home for the winter at 1415 Norwood street.

BOWLING NOTES

The Brainerd bowlers for the past week contended long and earnestly to win one of the five turkeys given away as prizes by the management of the Brainerd bowling alleys.

Mrs. B. E. Dunham and Mrs. E. A. Huggdahl easily won the two turkeys offered as ladies' prizes. Mrs. Dunham with five strikes in one game and Mrs. Huggdahl with seven spares in one game, their scores were 166 and 168 respectively.

In competing for the men's prizes, Geo. H. Kern, an accountant at the N. P. shops, made a score of 286, which was not only high enough to win the turkey, but is the highest score ever bowled in Brainerd.

There was considerable rivalry for the most spares in one game, at eleven o'clock Saturday night Oelwein and Skovold were high with nine spares each. In playing off the tie Skovold won.

Early in the week Leonard Ahgrim ran in five splits in one game and most of the bowlers conceded him the winner for the consolation prize. But Wm. Demmers, of the Dispatch, never admits defeat but fights to the last ditch. At 1:45 he stepped into a game and at 10:55, just five minutes before the contest closed, he had won a turkey with six splits in one game.

STAGE HAND SHOTS
ACTRESS—KILLS SELF

(By United Press)
Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 26—As the curtain slowly descended at the end of a little sketch "Under the Apple Tree," here a shot rang out and Miss Cecile Bartley, actress, dropped probably fatally wounded. Another shot rang out and Jack Grubb, stage carpenter from New York, fell with a bullet wound in his head.

Police say he shot the girl and then killed himself. The girl's condition is reported as critical.

WIDE BOBSLED LAW
VALID; VIOLATORS
FACE ACTION

The wide bobsled law, prohibiting the sale of new sleighs to Minnesota residents for use on highways unless the runners are four feet, six inches wide, and forbidding their use if purchased after January 1, 1921, is held constitutional in an opinion given by Attorney General Clifford L. Hilton.

"Reports are coming in from various counties throughout the state," Mr. Hilton said, "which indicate that county attorneys generally are preparing to enforce this law by appropriate criminal prosecution. It therefore behooves every dealer in new sleighs and every owner or user thereof to see that the runners are at least four feet, six inches wide."

Mr. Hilton holds that the act does not apply to sleighs which were in use prior to January 1, 1921, or to those not intended for use on highways, such as coasting and bobsleds used for pleasure purposes.

CHURCHLESS TOWN
HAS SUNDAY SCHOOL

(By United Press)

Walcott, Ia., Nov. 6—The most completely atheistic community in the United States—not in Greenwich Village nor New England intellectual circles, but in this sturdy German-American hamlet of 700—has been invaded by the Sunday school.

There hasn't been a sermon from a pulpit in twenty-five years. A church started here twenty-six years ago, failed and the building is now used to store farm implements.

Walcott was settled back in 1854 by a group of Holstein men from the German-Danish frontier, who came here to escape religious intolerance.

But women, the wives of agnostics, wanted their children to have the advantages of a Sunday school. The wife of the superintendent of schools, a newcomer, started one with twenty kiddies a month ago. The next Sabbath 55 children attended.

Card games and dances, old-fashioned square dances, are the favorite forms of amusement in Walcott. Sunday is the usual day for dances, and frequently the entertainments last until 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning.

"What harm is there in dancing?" asks the mayor. "People come here from church towns to dance with us on Sunday."

Good Art.

Good art always consists of two things: First, the observation of fact; secondly, the manifesting of human design and authority in the way that fact is told. Great and good art must unite the two; it cannot exist for a moment but in their unity.—Ruskin.

Mr. Hilton holds that the act does not apply to sleighs which were in use prior to January 1, 1921, or to those not intended for use on highways, such as coasting and bobsleds used for pleasure purposes.

CHURCHLESS TOWN
HAS SUNDAY SCHOOL
(By United Press)
Walcott, Ia., Nov. 6.—The most completely atheistic community in the United States—not in Greenwich Village nor New England intellectual circles, but in this sturdy German-American hamlet of 700—has been invaded by the Sunday school.

There hasn't been a sermon from a pulpit in twenty-five years. A church started here twenty-six years ago, failed and the building is now used to store farm implements.

Walcott was settled back in 1854 by a group of Holstein men from the German-Danish frontier, who came here to escape religious intolerance.

But women, the wives of agnostics, wanted their children to have the advantages of a Sunday school. The wife of the superintendent of schools, a newcomer, started one with twenty kiddies a month ago. The next Sabbath 55 children attended.

Card games and dances, old-fashioned square dances, are the favorite forms of amusement in Walcott. Sunday is the usual day for dances, and frequently the entertainments last until 2 and 3 o'clock in the morning.

"What harm is there in dancing?" asks the mayor. "People come here from church towns to dance with us on Sunday."

"THE REGIME OF GRACE"

Dr. George E. Burlingame Chief Speaker at North Side Union Services

At the north side union Thanksgiving service on Thursday morning Geo. E. Burlingame of San Francisco, who is conducting evangelistic services in the city gave the sermon his theme being "The Regime of Grace". Reading for the scripture lesson a passage from Hebrews 12:18-29 in the vivid translation of Weymouth, he took as his text the closing words of the selection: "Therefore, receiving, as we now do, a kingdom which cannot be shaken, let us cherish thankfulness so that we may ever offer to God an acceptable service, with Godly reverence and awe." He said, in part:

"The proposal to merge the new national holiday, Armistice Day, with the older Thanksgiving Day, involves some aspects which demand serious consideration before the merger is effected. The one is a holiday which emphasizes our national citizenship; the other a holiday affirming our spiritual citizenship. The one has for its essential spirit the idea of achievement and the consciousness of power; the other has for its essential spirit the idea of gratitude and the consciousness of dependence upon the bounty of God.

A blend inevitably involves some loss of identity for the elements entering into the blend; and the loss may be found to be too great to justify the blend. We may sacrifice depth to breadth. We may attenuate our lines to the point where they cover a wide expanse but defend nothing, as Gough found to his dismay in that fateful March 1918.

The promotion of the spirit of brotherhood and good will may be pushed to the point where it becomes a mere shallow sentiment devoid of vitality and of power. Fraternity springs from fraternity, and true brotherhood has its origin in a common fatherhood consciously experienced.

Two streams flow perennially in human society, two orders of life exist in ceaseless estrangement and conflict: the regime of grace and the regime of judgment. Sinai with its atmosphere of confusion and despair and judgment on sin; Zion with its light and glory and hope and fellowship. These two streams flow in human society, tending respectively to collapse and climax, to catastrophe and consummation, to everlasting shame and eternal glory. Herein is the fundamental distinction which points the way to the supreme occasion for our gratitude: "Ye are not come to Sinai, ye are come to Zion"—ye are sharers in the redeeming grace of God through the atoning blood that pleads for pardon. Ye are resting not on foundation doomed to collapse, but on the immovable rock. Receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, let us cherish thankfulness.

The atoning work of Christ, the supremacy of the Righteous Judge, the holy fellowship of believers, and the promised home in glory; these are the elements embraced in the Regime of Grace for which we are called to give thanks.

Our gratitude most worthily expresses itself in worship of the living God. To affirm that we can serve God only by rendering some service to His creatures is but a form of pantheism. If He is an intelligent Spirit, He is first of all to be served by our adoring and reverent worship of Him.

The Regime of Grace casts upon its subjects the spell of God's own gracious spirit, and as His children we manifest that spirit in our human relationships. "Thy gentleness hath made me great." The mind of Christ possesses us, and gentleness expels presumption, grace banishes selfishness from our hearts, and we love the unlovely as He loved them.

The consciousness of God's grace in our hearts moves us to sacrificial service for the needy and the sorrowing; and compels us to carry to all men everywhere the message of Christ's reconciling work, that men may be freed from the terrors and despair of Sinai, and may know the glorious freedom of a Christian man saved by grace.

In Suderman's drama of "John the Baptist" he pictures the prophet as saying to the Pharisees: "Here is an enslaved people crawling patiently on its belly beneath a scourge, oppressed by a heavy burden, and ye desire to tell it how it shall crawl!"

"Yea, because it must crawl somehow, great prophet." "Ye think so, I say that it shall rise out of the dust!"

This is the message of Jesus to the slaves of sin and judgment: "Arise, and be free through redeeming grace." For this give thanks.

NORTH SIDE CHURCHES

Joined in Thanksgiving Day Services at the First Methodist Church, Many Present

The Thanksgiving service held in the First Methodist service Thursday morning was well attended. A good representation from each of the church uniting was in evidence.

The Rev. Ed Cooke presided and other members taking part were Reverend Fred Errington of the Congregational church, who read the proclamation; Arthur C. Smith of First Baptist church offering the thanksgiving prayer. Rev. R. E. Cody closed with benediction.

The Rev. Dr. George E. Burlingame of San Francisco, Cal. preached the sermon which was an eloquent plea for humanity's recognition of the Infinite God and the innumerable causes for gratitude. Dr. Burlingame is a great preacher and knows how to present all phases of the gospel of Jesus Christ convincingly.

"THE REGIME OF GRACE"
Dr. George E. Burlingame Chief Speaker at North Side Union Services

At the north side union Thanksgiving service on Thursday morning Geo. E. Burlingame of San Francisco, who is conducting evangelistic services in the city gave the sermon his theme being "The Regime of Grace." Reading for the scripture lesson a passage from Hebrews 12:18-29 in the vivid translation of Weymouth, he took as his text the closing words of the selection: "Therefore, receiving, as we now do, a kingdom which cannot be shaken, let us cherish thankfulness so that we may ever offer to God an acceptable service, with Godly reverence and awe." He said, in part:

"The proposal to merge the new national holiday, Armistice Day, with the older Thanksgiving Day, involves some aspects which demand serious consideration before the merger is effected. The one is a holiday which emphasises our national citizenship; the other a holiday affirming our spiritual citizenship. The one has for its essential spirit the idea of achievement and the consciousness of power; the other has for its essential spirit the idea of gratitude and the consciousness of dependence upon the bounty of God.

A blend inevitably involves some loss of identity for the elements entering into the blend; and the loss may be found to be too great to justify the blend. We may sacrifice depth to breadth. We may attenuate our lines to the point where they cover a wide expanse but defend nothing, as Gough found to his dismay in that fateful March 1918.

The promotion of the spirit of brotherhood and good will may be pushed to the point where it becomes a mere shallow sentiment devoid of vitality and of power. Fraternity springs from paternity, and true brotherhood has its origin in a common fatherhood consciously experienced.

Two streams flow perennially in human society; two orders of life exist in ceaseless estrangement and conflict: the regime of grace and the regime of judgment. Sinful with its atmosphere of confusion and despair and judgment on sin: Zion with its light and glory and hope and fellowship. These two streams flow in human society, tending respectively to collapse and climax, to catastrophe and consummation, to everlasting shame and eternal glory. Herein is the fundamental distinction which points the way to the supreme occasion for our gratitude: "Ye are not come to Sinai, ye are come to Zion"—ye are sharers in the redeeming grace of God through the atoning blood that pleads for pardon. Ye are resting not on foundation doomed to collapse, but on the immovable rock: Receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, let us cherish thankfulness.

The atoning work of Christ, the supremacy of the Righteous Judge, the holy fellowship of believers, and the promised home in glory; these are the elements embraced in the Regime of Grace for which we are called to give thanks.

Our gratitude most worthily expresses itself in worship of the living God. To affirm that we can serve God only by rendering some service to His creatures is but a form of pantheism. If He is an intelligent Spirit He is first of all to be served by our adoring and reverent worship of Him.

The Regime of Grace casts upon its subjects the spell of God's own gracious spirit, and as His children we manifest that spirit in our human relationships. "Thy gentleness hath made me great." The mind of Christ possesses us, and gentleness expels presumption, grace banishes selfishness from our hearts, and we love the unlovely as He loved them.

The consciousness of God's grace in our hearts moves us to sacrificial service for the needy and the sorrowing; and compels us to carry to all men everywhere the message of Christ's reconciling work, that men may be freed from the terrors and despair of Sinai, and may know the glorious freedom of a Christian man saved by grace.

In Suderman's drama of "John the Baptist" he pictures the prophet as saying to the Pharisees: "Here is an enslaved people crawling patiently on its belly beneath a scourge, oppressed by a heavy burden, and ye desire to tell it how it shall crawl!"

"Yea, because it must crawl somehow, great prophet." "Ye think so! I say that it shall rise out of the dust!"

This is the message of Jesus to the slaves of sin and judgment: "Arise, and be free through redeeming grace." For this give thanks.

NORTH SIDE CHURCHES

Joined in Thanksgiving Day Services at the First Methodist Church, Many Present

The Thanksgiving service held in the First Methodist service Thursday morning was well attended. A good representation from each of the church uniting was in evidence.

The Rev. Ed Cooke presided and other members taking part were Reverend Fred Errington of the Congregational church, who read the proclamation; Arthur C. Smith of First Baptist church offering the thanksgiving prayer. Rev. R. E. Cody closed with benediction.

The Rev. Dr. George E. Burlingame of San Francisco, Cal. preached the sermon which was an eloquent plea for humanity's recognition of the Infinite God and the innumerable causes for gratitude. Dr. Burlingame is a great preacher and knows how to present all phases of the gospel of Jesus Christ convincingly.

TEACHING CITIZENSHIP

The State Board of Education, taking the position that the public schools of Minnesota are maintained "to train and develop good citizenship," recently adopted a resolution making the teaching of citizenship in the schools obligatory, and has published a course of study in citizenship which was mailed to all public schools of the state late this week.

This pamphlet sets forth the aims of citizenship teaching as follows: First, to help a child realize that he is a responsible and helpful member of several social groups; second, to awaken and stimulate motives that will lead to the establishment of habits of order, cleanliness, cheerful cooperation, sympathetic service, and obedience of law; third, to emphasize the intimate relation between the welfare of the individual and the welfare of home and society; and fourth, to prepare the young citizen for his exercise.

The formulation of the course of study followed the adoption of the resolution making citizenship training obligatory in all elementary grades in the public schools. The Board holds that it is of vital importance to teach citizenship during the formative years of the pupils in the elementary grades, and has ruled that no pupil shall be given credit for the completion of the elementary school until a course in this subject has been satisfactorily completed. As outlined by the State Board, the course is organized into three cycles to meet the needs of the pupils in the primary grades, the intermediate grades, and the grammar grades.

The idea is an excellent one, and the action of the State Board will be very generally commended by the people.

ECONOMIC CONFERENCE PROPOSED

It is said considerable pressure is being brought to bear upon the American government to call an international economic conference, but for the present at least, the administration seems disinclined to take such a step. It is possible, however, that such a meeting may be called later.

The advisability of a gathering of representatives of the various nations to discuss international trade, economic and financial problems, with a view to obtaining remedies through concerted action, has been suggested, it is understood, by many of the delegates to the armament conference.

President Harding, however, is said to incline to the view that the outcome of the arms conference should determine whether concerted action and unanimity among the nations can be obtained before other world problems are taken up by the nations.

SHOP CRAFTS WANT INCREASE

Only a few days ago executives of the railroads throughout the country petitioned to the United States Railway Board proposing to cut the wages of shop crafts employees to the "going rate paid for the same class of labor in other industries." And now another chapter in the railroad situation has been added. Wage increases of 13 cents an hour have been requested of virtually all the carriers in the country by the heads of shop crafts unions, representing over 400,000 employees, who have asked railroad executives for conferences on the subject Dec. 20.

Just what these propositions and counter propositions may mean, following the reduction of July 1st, it is difficult for a layman to fully understand, and we shall therefore not undertake to explain. Results will probably show for themselves.

FARMS FOR BUDDIES

The dominion of Canada has expended more than $84,000,000 in establishing returned soldiers on farm lands. This amount represents over 27,000 individual ex-service men who have benefited from the law, which had for its twin aims soldier re-establishment and the development of the agricultural resources of the dominion. It represents 80 per cent of Canada's ex-service men who have gone back to the land and 30 per cent of the men of the Canadian army who were demobilized as physically unfit.

TAX REVISION

The conference report on the tax revision bill has finally passed the Senate and now goes to the President for his approval. The bill is largely a compromise measure, and so much dissatisfaction is apparent over it that Republican leaders in Congress are already figuring on bringing out a new measure in the spring. The ways and means committee, it is said, will tackle the problem early in the new year. The probability is that this legislation will precede the enactment of a permanent tariff law.

FARMERS STORING GRAIN

The farmers of the Northwest have contracted for the storage of 1,250,000 bushels of wheat and rye in terminal elevators in the Twin Cities and Duluth, through the Equity Grain pool. This grain has been shipped from Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and will be held in the terminal elevators until spring. Contracts for 5,000,000 bushels of grain will be signed, all of which will be handled through the use of the $15,000,000 credit advanced by the War Finance corporation in Washington.

There were over 40,000 big game hunters licensed in Minnesota for the season just closed. Carlos Avery, State Game and Fish Commissioner, says more arrests were made this year than in former seasons, but fewer deer apparently were killed. At least two-thirds of the 40,000 hunters who went into the northwoods returned empty handed.

Retail coal dealers in Duluth have surprised their patrons by voluntarily reducing their prices for soft coal from 65 cents to $1.05 per ton. Hard coal prices are unchanged with the exception that Buckwheat has been dropped from $10 to $8.50. Here's hoping the reduction may reach Brainerd before the winter is over.

Vaudeville at New Park Today
The vaudeville for today at the New Park has all the appearances of being a first class bill.

The first number on the program is "The Sensational Turners" who are billed as having one of the greatest roller skating acts now on the vaudeville stage.

Ernest Rackett singing his own songs and speaking his own ideas is number two and comes well recommended.

Roberts and Fulton will present their act entitled "A Singing and Talking Oddity." Their act is said to be full of mirth and produces laughs second to none.

"Follies of '61" is the title of the last act which is put on by four old civil war veterans whose combined ages total 303 years. The personnel of the group comprises of Thomas McMally 72, James Tubicech 73, Tute J. Smith 76 and Geo. Wolf 78. All are members of the G. A. R. and loyal patriots who render melodies and popular airs that prevailed a half century ago.

Road Show at New Park Sunday

The management of the New Park theatre, Nov. 27, announces for one day only Sunday, the appearance of Mr. Joe Rolfe, Jr., America's foremost Swedish dialect comedian. Mr. Rolfe will appear in the four act comedy melodrama, "Ole Olson of the Hills." The play is a beautiful story, laid in the mountains of Kentucky and while there is plenty of pathos, practically every situation and every line is a laugh; in fact, the entire bill consists of only clean and wholesome comedy.

The supporting cast consists of artists of note; the well known comedienne Miss Jenny St. George, Mr. John Lancaster, Miss Dorothy Van, Mr. Henry Prince, and Mr. Jack Reed.

Between the acts three excellent vaudeville attractions are offered.

Edith Hallor at Lyceum Tomorrow

Take a woman who suddenly awakens to the fact that the man she married is a brute, devoid of all sense of honor; take a handsome admirer nearby, who is so honorable that he has not breathed his love for the woman, place them under a warm Italian sky, and the blood is bound to leap in response when the two throw aside the mask as the unfaithful husband's conduct paves the way.

There you have the opening of "Children of Destiny," a sumptuous picture at the Lyceum showing Sunday matinee and night. Of course out of this situation a child results who becomes the central figure in about as interesting a screen drama as has been seen here for some time.

Edith Hallor is the star. Miss Hallor is a charming actress, who plays a difficult role—that of mother and daughter—with grace and charm. As the young wife, she was excellent; as the mother charmingly dignified, and as the daughter—the girl of destiny—pretty ingenuish and then, when awakened to her situation in life, just careless enough to be much desired.

Tom Mix Coming Monday and Tuesday

He is a man after your own heart. Easy of manner, courageous in a pinch, good-natured, willing to take a chance, chivalrous toward women, happy-go-lucky in disposition that is Tom Mix in his latest picture. The popular cowboy star plays in an up-to-date western which presents him presiding over a bunch of boys who use autos and aeroplanes in addition to horses for the round-up. It is a lively and amusing picture this "After Your Own Heart." The star is seen in a number of thrills. The climax which offers the battle between the good element and the bad is worth the price of admission alone. Ora Carew is the leading woman.

It will be shown at the Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday.

Barbary Coast Shown Life-Like on Screen

A street of the old Barbary Coast of San Francisco, with its numerous underworld resorts, built by Robert Thornby, director of the special, "Half a Chance," which Jesse D. Hampton produced, before Thornby began work on the production, he had the entire picture planned into an old acquaintance, Al- verson, who knew the Coast of the old days like his pocket.

This enabled Thornby to truthfully portray the scenes required with the exactitude demanded of a big production. The beginning of the picture deals with the life of a prizefighter, "Sailor Burke," played by Mahlon Hamilton, who is the most feared man in the underworld. With the aid of Mr. Alverson Thornby was able to show accurate scenes of the old Cloverleaf Sporting Club, where Mahlon Hamilton, as the pugilist puts up the fight of his life.

"Half a Chance," will be shown at The New Park Monday and Tuesday.

Ernest Rackett singing his own songs and speaking his own ideas is number two and comes well recommended.

Roberts and Fulton will present their act entitled "A Singing and Talking Oddity." Their act is said to be full of mirth and produces laughs second to none.

"Follies of '61" is the title of the last act which is put on by four old civil war veterans whose combined ages total 303 years. The personnel of the group comprises of Thomas McMally 72, James Tubicech 73, Tute J. Smith 76 and Geo. Wolf 78. All are members of the G. A. R. and loyal patriots who render melodies and popular airs that prevailed a half century ago.

Road Show at New Park Sunday
The management of the New Park theatre, Nov. 27, announces for one day only Sunday, the appearance of Mr. Joe Rolfe, Jr., America's foremost Swedish dialect comedian. Mr. Rolfe will appear in the four act comery melodrama, "Ole Olson of the Hills". The play is a beautiful story, laid in the mountains of Kentucky and while there is plenty of pathos, practically every situation and every line is a laugh; in fact, the entire bill consists of only clean and wholesome comedy.

The supporting cast consists of artists of note; the well known comedienne Miss Jenny St. George, Mr. John Lancaster, Miss Dorothy Van, Mr. Henry Prince, and Mr. Jack Reed.

Between the acts three excellent vaudeville attractions are offered.

Edith Hallor at Lyceum Tomorrow

Take a woman who suddenly awakens to the fact that the man she married is a brute, devoid of all sense of honor; take a handsome admirer nearby, who is so honorable that he has not breathed his love for the woman, place them under a warm Italian sky, and the blood is bound to leap in response when the two throw aside the mask as the unfaithful husband's conduct paves the way.

There you have the opening of "Children of Destiny," a sumptuous picture at the Lyceum showing Sunday matinee and night. Of course out of this situation a child results who becomes the central figure in about as interesting a screen drama as has been seen here for some time.

Edith Hallor is the star. Miss Hallor is a charming actress, who plays a difficult role—that of mother and daughter—with grace and charm. As the young wife, she was excellent; as the mother charmingly dignified, and as the daughter—the girl of destiny—prettily ingenuish and then, when awakened to her station in life, just careless enough to be much desired.

Tom Mix Coming Monday and Tuesday

He is a man after your own heart. Easy of manner, courageous, in a pinch, good-natured, willing to take a chance, chivalrous toward women, happy-go-lucky in disposition that is Tom Mix in his latest picture. The popular cowboy star plays in an up-to-date western which presents him presiding over a bunch of boys who use autos and aeroplanes in addition to horses for the round-up. It is a lively and amusing picture this "After Your Own Heart." The star is seen in a number of thrills. The climax which offers the battle between the good element and the bad is worth the price of admission alone. Ora Carew is the leading woman.

It will be shown at the Lyceum on Monday and Tuesday.

Barbary Coast Shown Life-Like on Screen

A street of the old Barbary Coast of San Francisco, with its numerous underworld resorts, built by Robert Thornby, directed by Robert special, "Half a Chance," which D. Hampton produced. Before Thornby began work on the production he had the extreme.

Alverson, who knew the Coast. The old days like his pocket.

This enabled Thornby to truthfully portray the scenes required with the exactitude demanded of a big production. The beginning of the picture deals with the life of a prizefighter, "Sailor Burke," played by Mahlon Hamilton, who is the most feared man in the underworld. With the aid of Mr. Alverson Thornby was able to show accurate scenes of the old Cloverleaf Sporting Club, where Mahlon Hamilton, as the pugilist puts up the fight of his life.

"Half a Chance," will be shown at The New Park Monday and Tuesday.

Books in Our Time.

Of books in our time the variety is so voluminous, and they follow so fast from the press, that one must be a swift reader to acquaint himself even with their titles, and wise to discern what are worth reading. It is a wise book that is good from title page to the end.—A. Bronson Alcott.

Put Limit on Positiveness.

Don't be too positive. The positive man is, after all, only positive about his positiveness. Even a straight line can be made to be crooked by placing a certain kind of tissue paper over it.

COUNTY CHILD WELFARE BOARD

To Meet at Brainerd in Regional Conference, Morrison, Crow Wing Aitkin Counties Represented

PROTECTING CHILDREN LIFE

Considered a Fundamental Community Obligation and Measure of Community's Humanity

Among the out of town speakers at the child welfare conference next week will be Mrs. Blanche L. LaDu of the State Board of Control; Mrs. Mildred D. Mudgett, Department of Sociology, University of Minnesota, and William Hodson, Director of the Children's Bureau.

There will be much interest in hearing Mrs. LaDu who was appointed by Gov. Preus as one of the women members of the State Board of Control, when that body was increased from three to five members, the other member appointed by him being Miss Caroline Crosby. Mrs. E. J. Quinn heard Mrs. LaDu speak at the mid-winter luncheon last year, and Mrs. C. D. McKay heard her speak at the State Parent-Teachers Conference. Both ladies consider that we are fortunate in having her on the program for our Child Welfare Conference.

Mrs. J. M. Luken, president of the Whitler school parent-teachers association is a friend of Mrs. LaDu. She says that Mrs. LaDu and Mrs. Clarke, formerly normal training teacher in Brainerd, did a great deal in building up the school system in Pine River. At that time Mrs. LaDu was a law partner with her husband there, and recognized as a brilliant woman. She is the mother of two children and much interested in child welfare.

Mrs. Mudgett will present a valuable paper at the Tuesday afternoon session on "The Investigation and Treatment of Child Problems." It is hoped that Mrs. Mudgett may be able to present this paper at every Regional conference held in the state.

William Hodson, director of the Children's Bureau, is a thoughtful and interesting speaker. His subject will be "The Relation of the Children's Bureau of the State Board of Control to the County Child Welfare Board." Mr. Hodson was recently made a flattering offer by the Russell Sage Foundation, but the State Board of Control would not consent to releasing him, and Mr. Hodson himself is too interested in the development of the work in the state, to consider leaving it at this time.

The main social feature of the conference, will be the chicken picnic at seven-fifty cents a plate, served at six o'clock Tuesday evening, at the First Methodist church, corner Sixth and Juniper streets by the ladies of that church. There will be short after dinner speeches. For reservations notify Mrs. A. T. Fisher, phone 35-W if possible by Saturday.

The mass meeting Tuesday evening will begin with community singing. Miss Opsahl, director of music, will lead the singing. Miss Opsahl is very successfully beginning her work in our schools, and the parent-teachers associations of the city are assisting in getting out our good singers in each ward, to show her the older folks haven't forgot how to sing out, since childhood days. The Chamber of Commerce quartette, and the Riverside school Parent-Teachers Association quartette have been invited to be present and assist.

BAY LAKE TWP. FOR RED CROSS

Mrs. A. J. Rutger of Bay Lake township, has written this letter to Mrs. J. A. Thabes, president of the Red Cross Chapter of the county:

"As secretary of our Red Cross chapter, I was asked to write you concerning the membership drive. At a meeting held Saturday, it was decided to make one member of each family in our township a member of the Red Cross from funds which we have; on one condition, which is that we must have the assurance that there will be sufficient money to insure Crow Wing county a county nurse for the coming year.

"Our township has about sixty families, I think, and as soon as we hear that the nurse will be secured for the next year, I will forward the names and the money.

"Hoping this will prove satisfactory, and that we may receive an early reply, I remain,

Respectfully yours,
MRS. A. J. RUTGER,

DISTRICT COURT PROCEEDINGS

Jury Returns Unusual Verdict of $1 for Plaintiff, Costs to be Paid by Defendant

IN CASE OF RAU VS STORZBACH

Ackerman vs LaPlant is Now on Trial Civil Case Involves Real Estate Transaction

An unusual verdict was returned in the case of H. O. Rau vs J. J. Storzback of Northeast Brainerd heard in district court Friday afternoon by Judge W. S. McClenahan. The case involved damages claimed by both sides and centering about an automobile accident on Oak street at the 4 Mile Corner.

Rau asked for $1,012.50 damages and Storzback asked for $1800. The jury was out all night wrestling with the incidents of the collision and at length brought in a verdict of $1 for the plaintiff. The defendant has to pay the costs.

The attorneys for the plaintiff were M. E. and C. A. Ryan. For the defendant was Judge Gustav Halvorsen.

The case of Frank W. Ackerman et al vs Joe LaPlant is now on trial. The case concerns a real estate deal in which the plaintiff claims he bought lake shore property and that a survey showed no lake shore was in the land transaction. M. E. and C. A. Ryan appear for the plaintiff; and W. W. Bane for the defendant.

MEMORIAL SERVICES OF MODERN WOODMEN

REVEREND FRED ERRINGTON

Clerk C. Bruhn in Well Chosen Words Reviewed Life Work of Those Who Passed Away

The Modern Woodmen of America met in regular session Friday evening, Consul A. T. Peterson presiding, and the usual meeting was put through in short order. Promptly at 8:30 o'clock the following program was rendered:

Miss Bessie Bredenberg rendered a very pleasing selection on the piano and was followed by a vocal duet by Miss Esther Fogelstrom and John M. Bye which was well received. Miss Cecil Morrison with the violin accompanied by Miss Ida Peterson, gave a very appropriate selection and was met with hearty applause. Consul A. T. Peterson then read the Woodmen's memorial service and was followed with a solo by Dr. A. K. Cohen who was in the best of voice and was shown much appreciation by the audience.

Rev. Fred Errington gave the address of the evening eulogizing Woodcraft and the principles for which it stands. The audience showed their appreciation of Rev. Errington's efforts by giving close attention and his remarks were very appropriate and well received.

Clerk C. Bruhn in a few well chosen words reviewed the histories of those who have passed beyond during the last year.

Miss Fogelstrom and Mr. Bye favored the assembly with another duet after which the meeting was brought to a close by the audience singing America.

The committee is very grateful to those who assisted in making this service a success.

CHILDREN HAVE JOLLY FESTIVAL

Elks Hall Wednesday Evening Was Scene of Real Jollification Staged by B. A. Y.

BRAINERD HOMESTEAD NO. 602

Much Credit to Brotherhood of American Yeomen in Providing Happiness for Little Ones

Elks hall on Wednesday evening was the scene of a real jollification when Brainerd Homestead No. 602 of the Brotherhood of American Yeomen celebrated its annual children's festival. The hall was well filled with little ones early in the evening who were eager to take part in the program that had been arranged and which was greatly enjoyed by the parents and friends of the children.

Much credit is due an organization that plans and takes care of the children as does the Brotherhood of American Yeomen. Prizes were awarded some of the boys and girls and upon leaving each child was given a box of candy and a large luscious orange.

Brainerd Homestead is gaining in membership and is nearing the 500 mark. Officers and deputies are to be commended on the progress that has been made in this organization, not only in membership, but financially as well.

EVANGELISTIC MEETINGS

Final Meetings Sunday at First Baptist and Swedish Baptist Churches

The evangelistic meetings which have been held under the united efforts of the First Baptist and Swedish Baptist churches with Dr. Geo. E. Burlingame of San Francisco, Cal. as the preacher have grown with increasing interest and reached a high mark last evening at the Swedish church.

The musical program rendered by the choir was well received and the sermon was a searching appeal and a most graphic interpretation of the text in Psalms 143 and the 7th verse "Hide not thy face from me, lest I be like them that go down into the pit."

The final meetings will be held on Sunday. Dr. Burlingame speaking in the First Baptist church in the morning at eleven o'clock and in the afternoon at three a Young Peoples rally will be held in the Swedish church and an invitation is extended to all the young people of both churches.

The evening service at 7:45 should be one of great power and inspiration to be held in the Swedish church when Dr. Burlingame will preach his closing sermon. Let us all do our utmost to make it a service long to be remembered, said Rev. Smith.

MORE GAME THIS FALL IS NOTICED

Game Wardens in Almost Every State
Claim More Opportunities for Hunters

THEY SEEK UNIFORM LAWS
Biological Survey Advocates Limited
License Plan for Big Game, Based on Annual Estimates

By PETER P. CARNEY,
Editor National Sports Syndicate
There is more game this fall than the hunters have seen any time during the past five years. This information comes from the game wardens in every section of the country. The Bureau of Biological Survey is checking up the game conditions in the United States and recently requested the game wardens to report on the conditions that existed. There were very few adverse reports.

In many localities there are more ducks and geese than ever before and quail will enjoy its best year in a long time. Two mild winters and three good breeding seasons have caused quail coveys to multiply in many states. It is the consensus of opinion that the unlawful killing of migratory waterfowl during the spring flight was greatly reduced this year as compared with the heavy slaughter during the spring flights of other years. A great majority of people are impressed with the work the Government is doing for bird protection and interest in conservation of bird life is growing. It is only through wise conservation that the sport of hunting will be perpetuated.

The federal law protecting migratory birds is being observed better and birds are not being molested as much in the spring as formerly with the result that they are breeding in many places from which they were formerly driven because of constant disturbance from spring shooters.

5,000,000 Hunters Out

It is estimated that more than 5,000,000 shooters will be in the field this fall, and these sportsmen will be happily rewarded. They will find conditions better everywhere. In South Dakota there are more ducks than any of the old timers ever saw. Deer are plentiful in Colorado and are of good size. Several killed on the opening day weighed more than 300 pounds.

In Arizona there is more game because Lobo, the wolf that has been killing game and terrorizing that state for three years, was recently killed by a government hunter. Lobo weighed 78 pounds when he ran into a rifle bullet. For three years he led a charmed life. Every man in the state who owned a gun watched for him, but until the Government protector came across him in the open no one had been able to get a shot at him.

Maine wardens assert there are more deer in the state this fall than any time within the history of the oldest guide. Other New England states report the same way. Pennsylvania is always well stocked with game. Rabbits to the number of 7,000,000 are expected to be taken in the Keystone state. Pennsylvania is the greatest of rabbit states. The shooters prefer rabbit than all other game. Bear, deer, and pheasants are also plentiful in New York and Pennsylvania. New York is paying close attention to game conditions and it will not be long before this state will be chasing Pennsylvania hard. Besides the hundreds of protectors in New York State the state troopers are empowered to arrest those who violate the law.

Uniform Laws are Coming

One of these days there will be uniform laws to protect the nation's game supply. The Biological Survey advocates a limited license plan for big game, based on annual estimates of game conditions in the district. This means that the number of big game licenses issued for a given area in one season would depend upon the number of game animals which it has been determined in advance can be spared. Proper administration of this sort should conserve game in the greatest numbers consistent with the reasonable demands for local grazing and other interests and obviate the necessity for establishing perennial closed seasons, except on areas being restocked.

It has been the practice in many states to issue hunting licenses for the open season to all applicants, with too little regard for the available game supply of any particular area. The mals hunted within a given section, hunters may far out-number the animal and under such conditions the extinction of big game especially is inevitable.

MYSTERY MAN OF EUROPE IS PARIS BANKER

By CHAS. McCANN,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
London, Nov. 22.—Europe's mystery man, supposed to pull the invisible strings by which puppet kings are seated or unseated, and to have a hand in almost every European intrigue, is paying a brief visit to London.

Incidentally he has just been photographed publicly for the first time in years, if not for the first time in his life. The photograph discloses a white coated gentleman of seventy-one, somewhat resembling a slightly portly Buffalo Bill; block-clothed and distinguished-looking.

"Who's Who" gives him as Sir Basil Zaharoff, G. B. E. (Knight Grand Cross of the British Empire) holder of the grand cross of the French Legion of Honor, and a banker of Paris.

Popular report gives this Anglo-French-Grecian-Russian holder of a British knighthood and the highest class of the Legion of Honor credit for being the man who put King Constantine back on his throne, financed a couple of Greek wars, and who, anytime he gets a new idea, visits the proper premier and "puts it across."

Sir Basil was born of a Russian father and a Greek mother. He is French by nationality and English by education. He is at home in London, Paris, Athens, Madrid and Monte Carlo. He can go to any European capital and all the ordinary resident things about he city.

He has a palatial residence in Paris, on the Avenue Hoche. There a beaten-old dinner service, with jewel-encrusted spoons. It is at Monte Carlo, however, that his entertainments reach their climax. There, where he has an Arabian Night-like suite at the Hotel de Paris, he entertains, as he does in Paris or London, ministers, peers and bankers, and, according to gossip, arranges for his plans to be effected.

Sir Basil's wealth is estimated at anything from $100,000,000 up. It is probably "up," as he owns all sorts of property, from theatres to half of Monte Carlo. He controls an army of banks and armament firms. He is supposed to be financing bankrupt governments one day, influencing cabinets the next. He entertains lavishly and gives as lavishly, though he is a business man whose touch is apparently didas-like. He gave $2,500,000 a year to the Greek government during the Balkan wars, and is supposed to have financed Constantine in his return to the throne. He gave Athens a huge wireless station, helped French athletics, established chairs of aviation at the University of Paris and Petrograd, besides one at Oxford University.

Newspapers and politicians frequently attack Sir Basil. He never replies, and is never interviewed.

Col. Guinness said recently in the House of Commons, referring to Lloyd George's friendship for Sir Basil.

"The voice behind the throne, or, to be more accurate, the Presidential chair," a thrust at the Prime Minister's control of British affairs, "is probably Sir Basil Zaharoff's."

The present visit to England has been connected with the crisis in Greek affairs following the attempt to crush Turkey. If Greek ministers now here to negotiate a loan are successful, it will be Sir Basil they may thank.

JAPAN'S SPOKESMAN HEIR TO THE SHOGUNS

By CLARENCE DUBOSE,
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)
Tokyo, (By Mail).—The man who might have been Shogun, or Big Boss of Japan today—the heir of the Tokugawas, who ruled Japan two centuries and a half—heads the Japanese delegation to Washington.

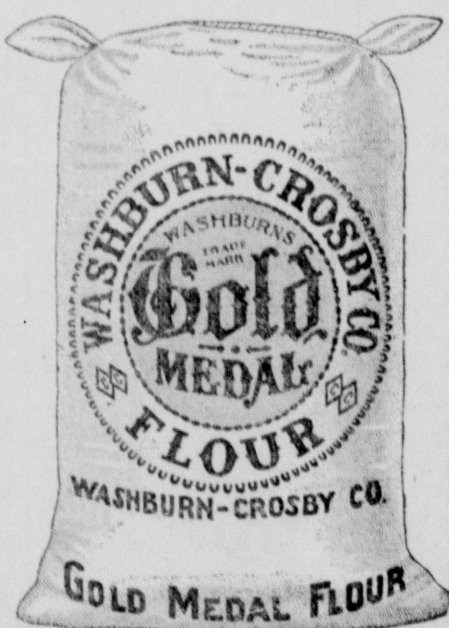

Prince Iyesato Tokugawa, President of the House of Peers, frock-coated, English educated, a suave and capable modern statesman, might easily have been, as all his family heads before him, the mediaeval ruler of a mediaeval people.

But an American naval officer, Commodore Perry opened Japan's closed doors when Iyesato, last heir of Tokugawa Shoguns, was five years old. The Shoguns passed from power. The boy who would have been lord of every two-sworded samurai in Japan was, instead, sent to Oxford. Today, the representative of a new order in his land, he is in America, determined to chart, if he can, paths of peace for his country and the world.

"I do not know what the conference will do or how long it will last," he said to the United Press just before leaving Tokyo. "I am most optimistic but all any of us can do is await developments and meet the situations there as they arise. But this I do know—nothing is so absurd in all the world as talk of war between Japan and the United States."

Because of the prestige of his family name, the great significance it retains

In his country, Prince Togukawa is popularly thought of in Japan as the head of the delegation. However while generally so referred to here, there is in fact, no officially designated "head" of the delegation. The government has been at pains to point out that fact, and so has Prince Tokugawa, but all in vain. The name means leadership to his countrymen.

Tokugawa was born in 1863 near Tokyo and in 1868 was designated by the Shogun as his heir, just before the Shoguns were swept from the rule of Nippon.

In addition to his English education he has toured America and other parts of the world, and visited President Taft during a trip to Washington.

One Japanese newspaper emphasized the fact that the Shoguns maintained good relations with the United States, from Perry's arrival to the restoration of the Emperor. "The Americans looked upon the Shogun as the supreme ruler of Japan," it continued, "and even today they tend to surround the Tokugawa with something of a halo. If this feeling is properly utilized the presence of the descendant of the Shoguns will do much to cement the friendship of the country."

Rendering a Positive Service

The Daily News, Minneapolis, Minnesota, prints the following editorial in its issue of November 14:

When Magnitude Discards Mystery

Frankness is being better recognized a big asset in all human relations, including business.

The bigger the business, the greater the need for frankness.

It wasn't always so; in fact, until only a few years ago, the reverse was true so far as actual practice was concerned and magnitude paid a penalty for the mystery in which it chose to cloak itself.

As one of the biggest of the big industrial and commercial organizations, the Standard Oil Co. used to exercise its full proportionate share of mystery. That this policy has been changed—deliberately and conspicuously—is a development that is as radical as it is interesting to students of publicity.

For three years, Standard Oil has been out of its shell telling the public exactly how it was doing things, why it was doing things and what it was driving at. It has made large use of advertising space in newspapers without regard to their attitude toward itself. It has conspicuously evidenced its desire to talk to the people and to put out its products for a price that included good will.

Today, instead of merely making its products available to those who MUST buy, Standard Oil is employing extensive publicity to make people WANT to buy. There is a very great difference just about the difference between the exaction of tribute in one case and the rendering of positive service in the other.

Entirely aside from commercial considerations, a policy of frankness and service will tend to iron out some disagreeable wrinkles in the things that are. And the benefits will go to, both sides of the equation.

To render a positive service is not alone the desire of those responsible for the management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). It is a well-formulated, clearly-understood determination.

This determination to render a positive service is expressed in the multitude of products manufactured by this Company from crude petroleum. The housewife, the motorist, the farmer, the physician, the fabricator of raw materials, almost every special branch of human endeavor, has been considered and that part of the petroleum which will render to each the greatest service, has been segregated and made instantly available.

This is the method chosen by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to make tangible the positive service it is endeavoring to render.

The campaign of advertising which is being carried on has as its object a frank discussion of the ways and means used by the Company in delivering this service, a discussion which tells what it is doing and how it is doing it, and why.

That there is a better understanding of the motives of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and a feeling of increasing confidence in its integrity and straightforward frankness is indicated by the number of favorable comments which the campaign has elicited from the editorial departments of newspapers, big and little, throughout the eleven states served.

Justice, equity, frankness, a basic desire to render a positive service, and a determination to take all of the people into its confidence are the underlying principles governing this organization.

HACKENSACK

The residence of Clarence Hackensack was completely destroyed by fire. He built a fire in the heating stove and went down town. When the fire was discovered, the flames had made such headway that the firemen could not save the structure or contents. Printing in America's Early Days.

The first printing press in New England was set up in Cambridge in 1639. The first book printed was the "Freeman's Oath," the second an almanac for New England, and the third the Psalms. There were five printing presses running in Boston in 1719, and it is very probable that during that 80 years from 1639, numerous books were printed.

In his country, Prince Tokugawa is popularly thought of in Japan as the head of the delegation. However while generally so referred to here, there is in fact, no officially designated "head" of the delegation. The government has been at pains to point out that fact, and so has Prince Tokugawa, but all in vain. The name means leadership to his countrymen.

Tokugawa was born in 1863 near Tokyo and in 1868 was designated by the Shogun as his heir, just before the Shoguns were swept from the rule of Nippon.

In addition to his English education he has toured America and other parts of the world, and visited President Taft during a trip to Washington.

One Japanese newspaper emphasized the fact that the Shoguns maintained good relations with the United States, from Perry's arrival to the restoration of the Emperor. "The Americans looked upon the Shogun as the supreme ruler of Japan," it continued, "and even today they tend to surround the Tokugawa with something of a halo. If this feeling is properly utilized the presence of the descendant of the Shoguns will do much to cement the friendship of the country."

Rendering a Positive Service

The Daily News, Minneapolis, Minnesota, prints the following editorial in its issue of November 14:

When Magnitude Discards Mystery
Frankness is being better recognized a big asset in all human relations, including business. The bigger the business, the greater the need for frankness. It wasn't always so; in fact, until only a few years ago, the reverse was true so far as actual practice was concerned and magnitude paid a penalty for the mystery in which it chose to cloak itself. As one of the biggest of the big industrial and commercial organizations, the Standard Oil Co. used to exercise its full proportionate share of mystery. That this policy has been changed—deliberately and conspicuously—is a development that is as radical as it is interesting to students of publicity. For three years, Standard Oil has been out of its shell telling the public exactly how it was doing things, why it was doing things and what it was driving at. It has made large use of advertising space in newspapers without regard to their attitude toward itself. It has conspicuously evidenced its desire to talk to the people and to put out its products for a price that included good will. Today, instead of merely making its products available to those who MUST buy, Standard Oil is employing extensive publicity to make people WANT to buy. There is a very great difference, just about the difference between the exaction of tribute in one case and the rendering of positive service in the other. Entirely aside from commercial considerations, a policy of frankness and service will tend to iron out some disagreeable wrinkles in the things that are. And the benefits will go to both sides of the equation.

To render a positive service is not alone the desire of those responsible for the management of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). It is a well-formed, clearly-understood determination.

This determination to render a positive service is expressed in the multitude of products manufactured by this Company from crude petroleum. The housewife, the motorist, the farmer, the physician, the fabricator of raw materials, almost every special branch of human endeavor, has been considered and that part of the petroleum which will render to each the greatest service, has been segregated and made instantly available.

This is the method chosen by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to make tangible the positive service it is endeavoring to render.

The campaign of advertising which is being carried on has as its object a frank discussion of the ways and means used by the Company in delivering this service, a discussion which tells what it is doing and how it is doing it, and why.

That there is a better understanding of the motives of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) and a feeling of increasing confidence in its integrity and straightforward frankness is indicated by the number of favorable comments which the campaign has elicited from the editorial departments of newspapers, big and little, throughout the eleven states served.

Justice, equity, frankness, a basic desire to render a positive service, and a determination to take all of the people into its confidence are the underlying principles governing this organization.

Counter-Attack
"Did that cultured book agent sell you a set of Hugo's works?"
"No, I talked him out of it."
"How did you do that?"
"I noticed that every time I mispronounced 'Les Miserables' he writhed in his chair, so I kept it up until the poor devil fled."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

HACKENSACK

The residence of Clarence Hackensack was completely destroyed by fire. He built a fire in the heating stove and went down town. When the fire was discovered, the flames had made such headway that the firemen could not save the structure or contents. The car, standing near the home, was saved with difficulty and nearly became a prey to the flames. Some insurance was carried.

Printing in America's Early Days.

The first printing press in New England was set up in Cambridge in 1639. The first book printed was the "Freedom's Oath," the second an almanac for New England, and the third the Psalms. There were five printing presses running in Boston in 1710, and it is very probable that during that 80 years from 1639, numerous books were printed.
